A large, multi-paned window on the right side of the building is particularly prominent. To the left, a smaller, single-pane window is also lit. The sky is dark and clear. The overall mood is quiet and still.

All About Our Town

Van Wert, Ohio is one of the most progressive towns in the Midwest. Although basically an agricultural community, it is rapidly expanding in the field of industry; we boast the largest cheese factory in the world. Our industrial development is excelled only by our intellectual and cultural growth; we point with pride to the first county library in the United States, the Wassenberg Art Center, the Community Concert Series, and a civic theater. Recreation facilities are abundant; early philanthropists provided a YMCA and a YWCA, and a grateful community has preserved these institutions and has added many modern resources for our leisure. Most important, our town offers exciting opportunities for the future. Van Wert indeed is an important part of OUR WORLD.

"Isn't that sharp!" Van Wert stores adequately serve the needs of the entire community.

Many hours after school are spent in research work at the Brumback County Library.

Most of our day is spent in the serious thought which accompanies the quest for academic achievement.

All Around VWHS

Whether your next class is across the hall or at the other end of the building, four minutes is never quite enough.

The core of our world is located in a beautiful, modern, red-brick building on the corner of Crawford and Jefferson Streets. Eight hundred and eighty separate egos spend one thousand and eighty hours in this wonderful place called Van Wert High School. It is here we have matured from children to young adults. This is a very important place, because here we are preparing for our future lives. The everyday things we do play a vital part in determining what kind of person we shall become. Our minds are cultivated in the classroom; our bodies are developed on the athletic field; and our personalities are enriched by association with the people around us. Van Wert High School is perhaps at present the most important part of OUR WORLD.

The hub of VWHS is the busy office of our principal, Mr. Vernon Johnson

The Wonderful World of the Young

Some use wax, others use tape. She uses angora. What do you use?

The world of the teen-ager is unlike that of any other. It is a world of carefree happiness strangely mixed with tears and heartache. It is a world of laughing at "elephant" jokes, risking life and limb to autograph a water tower, cheering hysterically for the team, slumberless slumber parties, talking for hours on the telephone, surviving on pizza and hamburger, and drinking Coke by the gallon. But it is also a world of studying under terrific pressures, minor disappointments that seem overwhelming, sometimes wanting desperately to belong, yet other times wanting to be alone. We fear the uncertain future, and secretly dread the responsibilities we must soon assume. Most important, the world of the teen-ager is one of the promise of things to come—fulfilled ambitions, true happiness and success, marriage and children. It is a world of anticipation—it is the WONDERFUL WORLD OF THE YOUNG.

We're noisy, we're enthusiastic, we're loyal—we love our Cougar team

EXPLORATION IN EDUCATION

Science and Math Facilities Keep Pace

Taking advantage of fine equipment, Nick Elliott puts her knowledge to use.

The various science courses extend a challenge to learn and practice the scientific method. General science introduces basic scientific principles to the freshman. During the year, he studies atomic structure, simple machines, motors, weather forecasting, prehistoric life, and plants. Students who elect biology, usually in the sophomore year, study the origin, development, structure, function, reproduction, and distribution of plant and animal life. He learns the care and operation of a microscope, a valuable instrument in his many experiments. He applies his knowledge in the laboratory when he dissects plants, low forms of animal life, the earthworm, and the frog. In chemistry, taken mostly by juniors, a student memorizes chemical symbols and valences, studies the laws of gases, works chemical problems and equations, and learns to operate a slide rule. Using this knowledge in the lab, he becomes familiar with lab equipment, the bunsen burner, the graduated cylinder, and many chemical substances. Matter and motion, which include mechanics, light, heat, electricity, and sound, are studied in physics. The senior taking this course spends two periods a week performing experiments such as those involving Archimedes' Principle, the elastic modulus, Hooke's Law, and Boyle's Law. The balance, generator, and pulley are some of his many instruments.

Displaying the true scientific attitude Ed Gardner and Bob Hunziker work a typical physics problem.

With Growing Demand

The mathematics courses at Van Wert High School teach and encourage logical thinking. General math and review math, taken in the freshman and senior years, respectively, review and extend the student's knowledge and ability to apply basic arithmetic principles. In algebra and geometry, the student becomes acquainted with plane and solid figures, the measurement of angles, and the use of radicals and exponents. In preparing his everyday assignments, he becomes expert in the use of the compass and protractor. The advanced math student discovers the basic concepts of trigonometry, solid and analytic geometry, and calculus. All these math courses prepare a student for a career in engineering, medicine, teaching, and accounting.

Language Arts—We Learn to Express Our Thoughts

Our English Department works to broaden the reading range of its students, to develop their vocabulary, and to strengthen their ability to communicate ideas. English IX opens the door to the classics through Great Expectations and The Odyssey. For the effective use of the library, all freshmen are required to learn the Dewey Decimal System. Sophomores devote hours to vocabulary study, preparing talks, book reports on Silas Marner and A Tale of Two Cities, and memorizing thirty lines of Julius Caesar. After a brief review of grammar, juniors study our heritage of American literature in poetry, short stories, and the play, "Our Town." Senior English is an elective, designed for college-bound students. An intensive study of the construction of perfect paragraphs, the epic, Beowulf, attempts at creative writing, and the search for a perfect world, Utopia, constitute the curriculum. A vital branch of the English course is speech class, where fears of public speaking are overcome and a study of the theater is stressed.

Although no longer spoken, Latin is the basis of many modern languages, including our own. First-year students concentrate on the cases of nouns, the conjugation of verbs, and derivatives. Caesar's writings on the Gallic Wars present a challenge to second-year "Romans." Reading Vergil's heroic tale, The Aeneid, and Cicero's orations comprise the major portion of third and fourth-year Latin study.

For those who prefer a modern language, a three-year course in French is offered. Most of the first year deals with correct pronunciation and simple conversation. Second-year "etudiants" read some examples of French literature, such as "The Bishop's Candlesticks." Studying French history and culture, and tape recording in the language lab to become proficient in spoken French comprise the final year.

Social Science—The Study of People in their World

The Social Studies Department consists of six courses. Of these, American Government and American History are required for graduation. Students electing freshman social studies learn the fundamentals of State and local government. They learn of the many phases of living in our community. World history entails the study of the growth of our civilization. Pre-historic man, the Renaissance, and the world wars are some of the things which become more real to young inhabitants of the modern world. American History provides all juniors with a deep insight into our heritage. They learn of the fascinating people and events which have contributed to the growth of our great nation, from the time of the Aztecs to the orbiting of the earth by John Glenn. Economics and social problems are each one-semester courses, elected mostly by upperclassmen. The economics student becomes thoroughly familiar with our capitalistic or free-enterprise system. To gain practical knowledge, he "invests" in a certain company and follows its daily gain or loss in the Wall Street Journal. Social problems is the study of human relations, and of living in today's society. Most interesting is the class discussion on topics such as marriage, teenage drinking and smoking, and group influences. The senior studies the governmental functions of his nation, State, and community in the required course of American Government. Lively discussion of Kennedy's assassination, the murder trial of Susan Creech, Barry Goldwater's chances for the Republican Presidential nomination, and the pros and cons of federal aid found its way into our daily sessions.

Art Course Develops Creative Instincts

Van Wert's excellent Art Department aims to develop all the creative talent which a student might possess. The student is acquainted with interior decoration, sketching, portrait drawing, clay works, advertising, modern design, and the cultural background of all art. The student's diligent work finally rewards him when he displays his work at the annual spring show, held in Wassenberg Art Center. The feel of creating, admiration from others, and the beginning of a profitable career, all play a part in the goal of the growing artist of Van Wert High School.

Commercial Courses Prepare for a Career in the Business World

Future practical application best describes the importance of the business education program. The fundamentals and techniques of good typing are taught in Typing I. Speed and neatness are stressed in the second-year course. Shorthand students learn a new language as they study the dots, dashes, and curly lines that form words. As in typing, speed and accuracy are the keys to achievement. The importance of keeping neat and accurate records is accentuated in bookkeeping class. The words, "ledger," "debit," "credit," all become very familiar to the budding accountant. In office practice, future secretaries learn to be tactful and neat while on the job. Training in the operation of adding machines, stencil cutters, and duplicators is taught in business machines.

Neatness and accuracy are foremost in the mind of Gary Frysinger as he fills out his bookkeeping ledger

Diligent practice and nimble fingers are required of a good typist

Vocational Program Provides On-the-Job Training

Students enrolled in the Diversified Cooperative Training Program divide their time between school and a vocation. In the mornings, they attend classes in the required academic subjects plus classroom work in DCT. In the latter, they learn from Mr. Clem how to fill out an income tax form, employer-employee relations, and study in their particular field of training. Afternoons are spent working in actual jobs in area hospitals, offices, garages, and other business establishments.

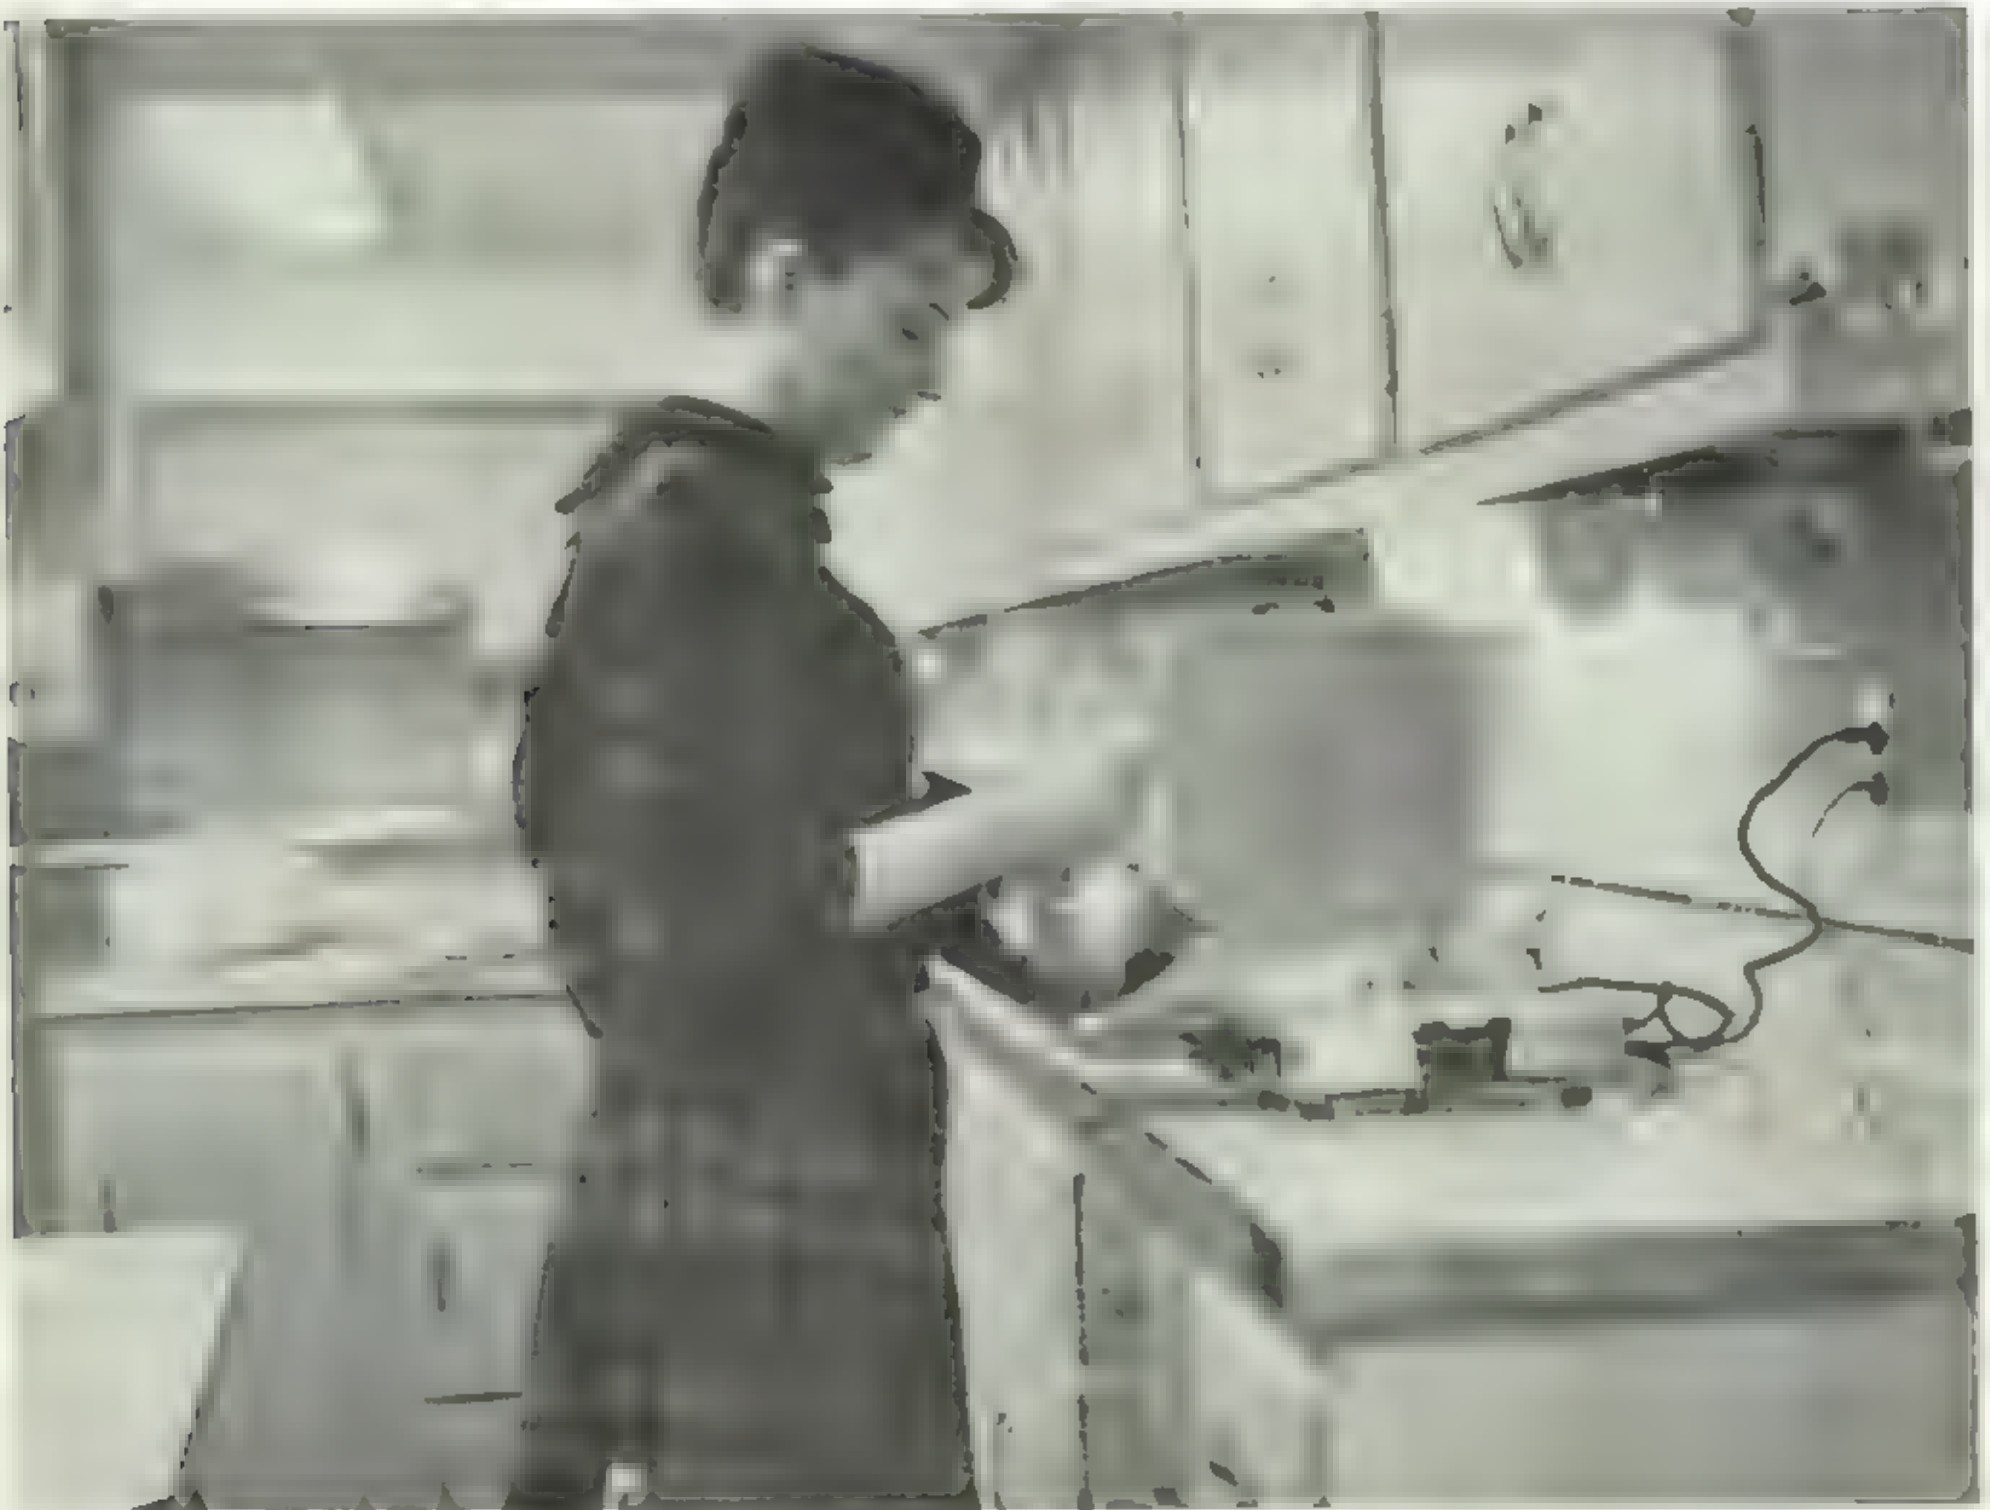

DCT gives Danny Williams the opportunity to combine his favorite hobby with a profitable job.

Home Economics and Industrial Arts

The ability to sew not only helps this girl to increase her wardrobe now, but will later aid her in meeting the demands of a family budget

Train Future Homemakers and Craftsmen

The home economics student is taught everything from home and time management to child care. She also learns culinary arts, garment construction, dress design, and maintenance of home appliances. No matter what profession a girl enters after graduation, she will never regret her home economics training.

Industrial arts includes three areas—wood, metal, and drafting. These courses train a boy not only for a skilled trade by which he might make his living, but also for a useful and interesting hobby. The woodshop student makes various projects which include coffee tables, cedar chests, lamps, gun cabinets, and bulletin boards. Safety is stressed throughout. The boy studying metals discovers the various types and uses of metals. He makes anything from a tool to a popcorn bowl. Drafting prepares for a career in engineering by presenting the basic and advanced principles of mechanical drawing.

Creative work in woodshop teaches Mike Hipsley coordination of the mind and hands.

Van Wert Takes an Active Part in Nation-wide Strive for Physical Fitness

Volleyball is one of the many sports included in the physical education program

To develop one's mind is the main aim of education, but at Van Wert High School this is not enough. Producing a physically fit, coordinated, and mentally alert body is another goal for which our teachers strive and attain through our physical education program. Learning the fundamentals of athletic games, exercising to strengthen the muscles, and practicing good sportsmanship all contribute to our becoming a better person, both mentally and physically. In the semester course of health, we learn the basic care of the body, as well as its anatomy. In the nationwide strive for physical fitness, Van Wert High School is meeting the requirements without hesitation or limitation.

Larry Lynch shows that a good driver is careful and alert.

We Prove that Teens Can be Good Drivers

We all accept the challenge of driving at some time, but the best time and way is in high school through a drivers' education course. Here, one's lifetime driving habits are established. Studying the mechanical devices of an automobile, learning correct driving techniques, and practicing good safety habits, all add to this profitable experience.

The newly organized Youth Safety Council, composed locally of students from Van Wert and the three other county high schools, not only encourages safety, but also warns what can result from hazardous driving. From this organization, six students are chosen to serve as members of the teenage jury which acts as an advisory council to Judge Harrington during the monthly sessions of Juvenile Traffic Court. Jury members ask questions of the defendant, and work with the judge in determining his sentence. We are proud to have a Van Wert High School Student, Tom Smith, serving as co-chairman of the State council. He also holds local and regional offices.

SPORTS

Sports plays a very active part in high school life. It is also a popular pastime for the citizens of Van Wert. Many persons cheer our mighty Cougars as they tangle with opponents from near and far, but little do they know that they are watching boys growing up and maturing in a way that only an athlete can recognize.

Varsity sports prepares the high school athlete for adult life by making him a leader, and a follower. He learns to give orders, to take orders; to be humble in victory, gracious in defeat. The satisfaction he earns for doing his best is very rewarding; the friendships he develops among his teammates will last a lifetime.

Coaches Kesler, Smith, Whittington, Coon, and Klutka discuss the strategy for next Friday's game

This year the people of Van Wert witnessed many exciting football games. The Cougars were not always victorious, but they gave their followers every reason to be proud of them.

Most people do not realize what a football team really is. Anyone who has ever been close to football knows exactly what it is. A football team is a group of men, each one working hard at his own individual talent, guided by his able coaches, strengthened by faith and courage, and sparked by a desire that only an athlete can recognize. Remove any of these characteristics and there can be no team; keep them together and emerge the mighty Van Wert Cougars.

Football is not a game of chance, but the outcome of every game is affected partially by fate, which was sometimes against us, sometimes with us. The Cougars fought courageously to win five out of ten games, but most of the defeats could well have been victories. Missed conversions forced our team to yield to both Defiance and Coldwater. Time ran out at St. Marys and halted a touchdown drive; a poor fourth quarter cost us the Celina game. Although the Cougars suffered from the lack of any spectacular material, their physical endurance, strong desire, and the guidance of their experienced and respected coaches made them outstanding in the eyes of Van Wert and the students of Van Wert High.

Number for Twenty-two Lettermen

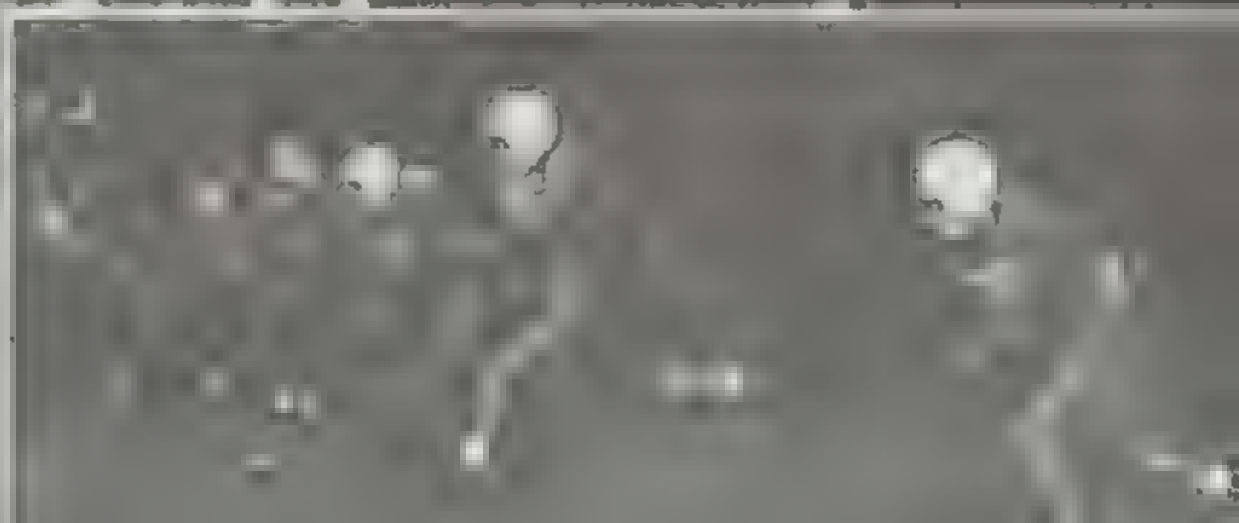

These lettermen were the supporting power of the Cougars this year. Some will be back again next year. Others, the seniors, have played their final game for Van Wert. All of them were outstanding in their effort and desire, but two deserve special recognition. Dave Price, a sophomore, filled one of the most important and most difficult positions on the team, center. He did an excellent job, winning praise from all. John Tindall, senior linebacker, played superior football again this year. His extra efforts won him two Western Buckeye League awards—first team defense and honorable mention offense.

“We Are the Mighty Cougars . . .”

The dynamic Van Wert Cougars began the season with a thrilling victory over the Delphos St. Johns Blue Jays, the highest-rated team in the area. Van Wert teams are perennially plagued by a lack of height and unfortunately, this year was no exception. Our boys made up for it, however, with their commendable ability and determination. We were sparked the entire season by two outstanding seniors, Gig Davis and Tom Keltner. Serving as a nucleus they were supported by fine athletes, several of whom will be back next year.

Before the season opened, Coach Chuey said that he would rather lose to a strong team than defeat a weak one. The opposition we faced throughout the season was of the highest caliber, for we added several of the area's strongest teams to our schedule. Although the losses were more numerous than the wins, all of Van Wert should be very proud of their Cougars.

The Cougar Cause was hurt by the absence of Randy Gardner and John Games, both of whom were injured during the season.

Cougar captain, Gig Davis, had no trouble scoring consistently with or without the ladder.

Seniors—This Was Their Last, Their Best

These four seniors have played their final game for Van Wert High School. Strong desire, a willingness to sacrifice, and commendable ability, combine to make them a foursome that anyone would welcome on his team.

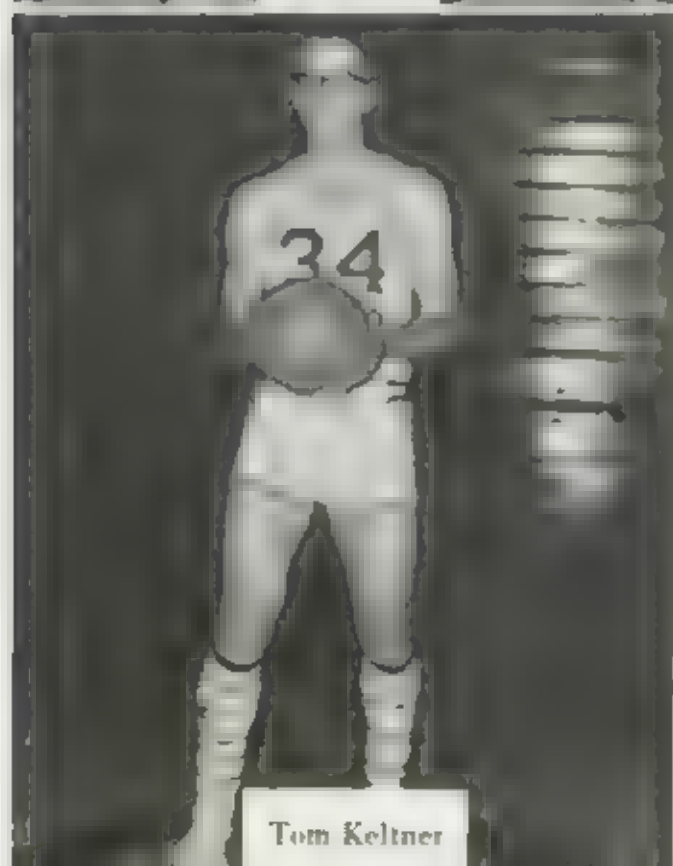

Gig Davis played Varsity ball for three years. He has been the offensive spark-plug and playmaker since his sophomore year. His leadership and aggressive play strengthened the entire team, and made them function smoothly. His many years of practice and hard work payed off for him this year; he received the Western Buckeye League Award of "Honorable Mention." Next year the Cougars will miss Gig; they will have to find someone else to keep them hustling. For his extra effort and fine sportsmanship, Gig was named Most Valuable Player by his teammates and the Jaycees.

Art Williams, the tallest Cougar, played his first year of Varsity ball. He started at center and did some fine rebounding. He was always scrapping for the ball, and he came up with it more times than not. Art was the defensive strong man of our team.

Tom Keltner was Van Wert's big scoring punch. He was the one to rely on when we needed those two points fast. His efforts also won him a berth in the "Honorable Mention" column. Tom put in many hours of practice, and perfected that deadly fade-away jump shot. He played excellent games his junior year, but surprised everyone by scoring thirty points in that upset over Delphos.

Larry Mengerink also played Varsity basketball three years. He started his sophomore year, and he always turned in an outstanding performance for the Cougars. He was the steady, level-headed player a coach always needs in a pinch.

The Reserves won only five games this year, but the knowledge and fundamentals of highly competitive basketball which they learned will be invaluable to them. Brent Crone, the Kittens' highest scorer, and Frank Sinning, the tallest player on their team, were advanced to Varsity late in the season. Crone started the last two games for the Varsity.

Although winning only four of the season's fifteen games, the boys on the freshman team acquired the qualities of sportsmanship, respect for fellow players, and the desire to win. Near the end of the season, Coach Paul Hughes proudly placed two greenies, Jerry Walters and Mike Ralston, on the Reserves.

Van Wert Crowns Its First Basketball Queen

Tina Baltzell, Queen Karen Elston, Barbara Roggenkemper

Miss Karen Elston was chosen to reign over the 63-64 basketball season as Van Wert High School's first Basketball Queen. Each class nominated two girls; from these, members of the Reserve and Varsity teams chose the queen and two attendants. Karen was crowned just before the Varsity game with Lima Bath by Cougar captain, Gig Davis. Her attendants were Barbara Roggenkemper, a junior, and Tina Baltzell, a freshman. Following the victorious game, the Queen and her Court reigned over a dance, sponsored by the Student Council.

Track

Gary Frysinger prepares to hurl the shot put.

Coach Richard Kesler

Carl Wise leads the 440. (For awhile at least.)

Van Wert has had track for only four years, but already the team is strong and has a lot of potential for future years.

Track is an individual sport; it is the individual who earns the points. Each athlete trains for his own particular event. Although the team as a whole had an outstanding record, certain individuals deserve mention.

Gig Davis had an outstanding season in the mile run. He placed second in the Western Buckeye League meet, in which the first three places broke the old league record. Gig's time was the best of his career, 4:37.3. Half-miler, Charles Gehres placed third in the league meet. Don Baer, a junior worked hard in the pole vault, and his efforts merited him second place in the league meet. A sophomore with a lot of desire and potential, Don Poling, consistently placed behind Davis and Gehres in the mile and half-mile events.

The team's record this year was 4 wins and 4 losses. They placed third in the Western Buckeye League Meet at Shawnee behind Shawnee and Kenton.

For the first time, track had the interest of the student body. Although the Fairgrounds was often wet and muddy, many students and teachers came to watch the meets.

Varsity Cheerleaders

The Varsity cheerleaders worked enthusiastically to keep up the school spirit. They performed skits at pep assemblies, made posters and booster tags, and hung huge victory signs in the halls.

The cheerleaders had many responsibilities. They trained the Junior High and Reserve cheerleaders, attended cheerleading camp in the summer, and practiced many hours to perfect their cheers. Their attitude was a credit to their school and their community.

Cheerleading rewarded these girls by developing leadership and character, and by giving them the opportunity to meet many people.

Many Cougar fans turned out for the bonfires, sponsored by the Booster Club.

Reserve Cheerleaders

Six peppy girls, representing the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes, served on the reserve cheerleading squad. The student body was proud of the way they backed the Kittens.

Reserve cheerleading not only develops poise and personality, but it is also an honor to represent Van Wert High School.

Our World of

ORGANIZATIONS

We would not be well-rounded individuals without our world of organizations. We grow physically and mentally, but we must also mature socially. Van Wert High School provides the social activities that develop character and produce future leaders. There are clubs for every interest. They range from foreign language clubs, honorary clubs, and speech and science clubs, to religious, vocational, musical, and athletic organizations. Each club has an aim and it strives to attain its ideals for the benefit of its members. Through our organizations, we learn group cooperation, meet new ideas, and accept challenges.

To be qualified for election into the National Honor Society, one must set his goals and ideals high, striving always to attain them. He must possess the qualities of character, scholarship, leadership, and service. The Honor Society was established to reward the top students for achieving these goals. Five percent of the junior class and fifteen percent of the senior class are inducted each year. Their distinction shows their achievements in the past, and reminds them that they have additional obligations in the future. Thus is their motto, Noblesse Oblige.

The emblem shows the flaming torch of knowledge and symbolizes the keystone as stability.

Band

Under the able direction of Mr. Jay Hall, the Van Wert High School Band opened its marching season with a performance at the Fair. Soon, they presented the halftime shows during football season which the fans found so entertaining.

Basketball games were "livened up" by the Pep Band, whose rousing rendition of the fight song never failed to enthuse players and spectators alike.

Many hours of practice were spent in preparing for the opening of the band's concert season, the winter concert. During the closing weeks of April, they had yet another engagement with the people of Van Wert, the annual spring concert, Spring-Tasia.

The band received a rating of "excellent" at District Contest. The season closed with performances at Baccalaureate and Commencement.

Concert

Under the direction of Mr. Larry Schaufelberger, the Van Wert High School Concert Choir had its most successful season since the Class of 1964 entered VWHS. The performances at Business Education Day and the Thanksgiving Assembly opened the season for the Choir. With the Holidays came the Christmas Concert in Lincoln Gym, the Rotary performance at the YWCA, and the Christmas Assembly.

Soon began the intense practice for District and State Contests where a very proud choir received a rating of I from every judge and a final rating of Superior.

Tom Dustman, Deborah Dull, and a mixed octet received I's at State Solo and Ensemble Contest.

The climax of the year was the spring concert, "An Evening With the Concert Choir," which performed before a capacity crowd both nights.

Thirty-one seniors sang with the Choir for the last time at the Baccalaureate Services and the Commencement Exercises, marking the end of three years of hard work, fun, and the honor of being a member of the Van Wert High School Concert Choir.

The members of the Student Council are the representative government for the student body, working together with the administration to solve the problems facing our school. The Council meets every two weeks. Under the guidance of Mr. Johnson and Mr. Hendricks, they discussed problems and projects which would improve school life. Some of their activities were selling shakers during football and basketball seasons, and operating the paperback bookstore throughout the year. During the Christmas holidays, they sponsored the "Miss Basketball Program," at the close of football and basketball seasons, they honored the parents of the players. Also sponsored by the Student Council were two sock hops, "Locker Clean-Up Week," and Career Day.

Building a better fellowship of boys was a goal for which the members of the Junior-Senior Hi-Y strived during the year.

Advised by Mr. Kesler and Mr. Palmer, the club had a profitable year. They viewed movies on social problems and basketball. They also sold refreshments at basketball games and sponsored dances to add money to their treasury. From this, they donated $150.00 to the swimming pool fund. At Christmas they gave fruit baskets to needy families in Van Wert.

Even when not in Rome, do as the Romans do anyway.

Largely due to the Latin Club and the able guidance of Mrs. White, ancient Roman ideas and customs are still alive in Van Wert High School. During the second semester, the club had monthly meetings which all sophomores, juniors, and seniors taking Latin were invited to attend.

The inauguration of the newly elected officers opened the year with proper ceremony. The induction was an imitation of the famed Huntley-Brinkley newscasters. The remaining meetings provided skits, plays, and games. The eleventh annual Roman Banquet was held in May. Those attending dressed in Roman style and as mythological characters, and were served by freshman slaves. The feast, consisting of authentic food was the highlight of the year.

National Thespians

The National Thespian organization is composed of students interested in the area of dramatics. Each year, the school play provides the opportunity for Thespians to act, or to help in the technical crews "behind the scenes," such as lighting, sound, stage, costume, make-up, properties, and publicity. Through this experience, they learn not only the techniques of acting, but also the appreciation of dramatic writing.

The National Forensic League, advised by Mr. Waldron, offers an opportunity to interested students to study and perform in the areas of public speaking, debate, extemporaneous speaking, and dramatic and humorous interpretation. The speech club helps its members to develop confidence, and logical thinking when performing in public.

Several members performed before local civic groups and at contests. A number of them also attended a speech clinic held at Bowling Green State University.

Future Homemakers of America

The Mary Sawyer Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America helps to prepare a more efficient way for the homemakers of tomorrow. The advisors are Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Baker. Their programs have included Mr. Van Ausdall from the Chamber of Commerce who showed his pictures of Van Wert, and a panel discussion on "What Values Boys Look for in a Girl." The panel members were three senior boys: Gig Davis, Roger Holbrook, and Jim Drake. The club also operates the concession during football season. FHA concluded its activities by sending delegates to the State Convention and by taking a trip to an historical spot in Ohio.

Working does have a good side to it and the members of the Vocational Industrial Club know this. Their club provides some of the social activities they normally miss by working in their desired vocation for half of the day. The members had a chance to attend two conferences in Columbus, where they elected the State officers and listened to various speeches. Two elected members also toured the State capital for a day.

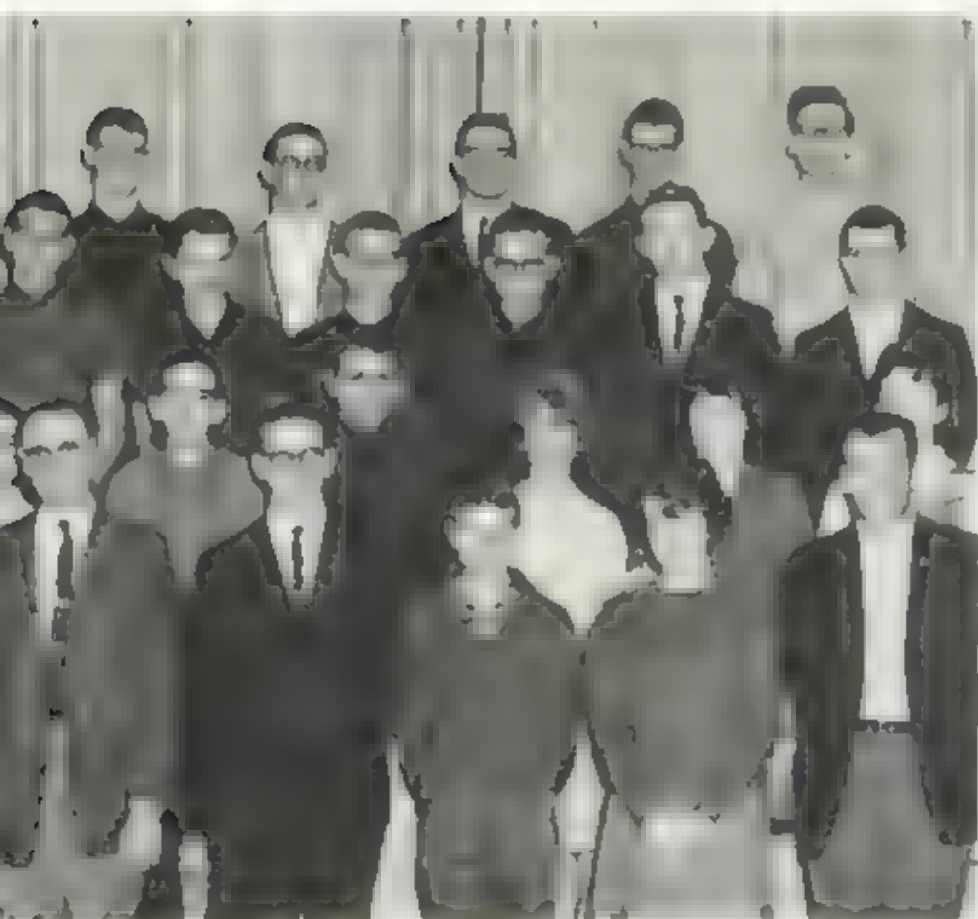

Mr. Clem. as advisor, assisted them in many of their projects. They raised money by sponsoring an after-game dance, raffling a turkey at Thanksgiving, and having a Saturday car wash. With their money, they had a roller skating party and invited their employers to an employer-employee banquet in April.

ACTIVITIES

Highlighting our lives in Van Wert High School were our special occasions and activities. Happy will be the memories of the dances we attended, the plays we saw and in which some of us took part, the banquets that always ended in indigestion, the band and choir concerts which were so entertaining, the exciting Homecoming festivities, and that "best Prom ever." These activities made our world enjoyable and memorable.

MISS SHARYL SCHWARTZ
1964 HOMECOMING QUEEN

Fall's traditional Homecoming festivities gaily began to the tune of "Sweet and Lovely." After the band had formed a huge heart on the field, Sharyl Schwartz was crowned Nineteen Sixty-Four Homecoming Queen by Carol Greisinger, last year's senior attendant. Queen Sharyl was presented with her scepter and roses by Co-captains Art Williams and Larry Mengerink. Helping to make the evening perfect, the Cougars scored a decisive victory over the Wapakoneta Redskins in a thrilling gridiron battle.

Following the game, the Queen and her Court reigned over the gala Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the Excalibur Staff. The theme of the dance, "Above the Stars," was carried out in both music and decorations. A galaxy of silver stars was suspended from a blue crepe paper heaven, creating an atmosphere of romance. Enchanted couples danced to the music of Lee Blanchard.

Susan Poling was in charge of decorations for the dance, and Rebecca Roggenkemper served as program chairman.

Snowball Is "Our Winter Love"

Highlighting the Holiday Season was the traditional Snowball. Encircling the glistening snow ball, enchanted couples danced to the music of Marv Blanchard. Green and white streamers and snow covered evergreen trees created a wintry effect. At the far end of the floor, the darkened silhouettes of a boy and girl could be seen through a picture window. Thus was the theme, "Our Winter Love," expressed.

Intermission entertainment was provided by Susan Harrington and Terry Slane, accompanied by Jeanne Fox. Together, they sang a medley of popular songs which included "Blowin' in the Wind," "One Hand, One Heart," "Days of Wine and Roses," "More," and "Some Love."

This year, each school in the county chose a couple as their candidates for Snowball King and Queen. Representing Van Wert High School were Sharyl Schwartz and Larry Mengerink.

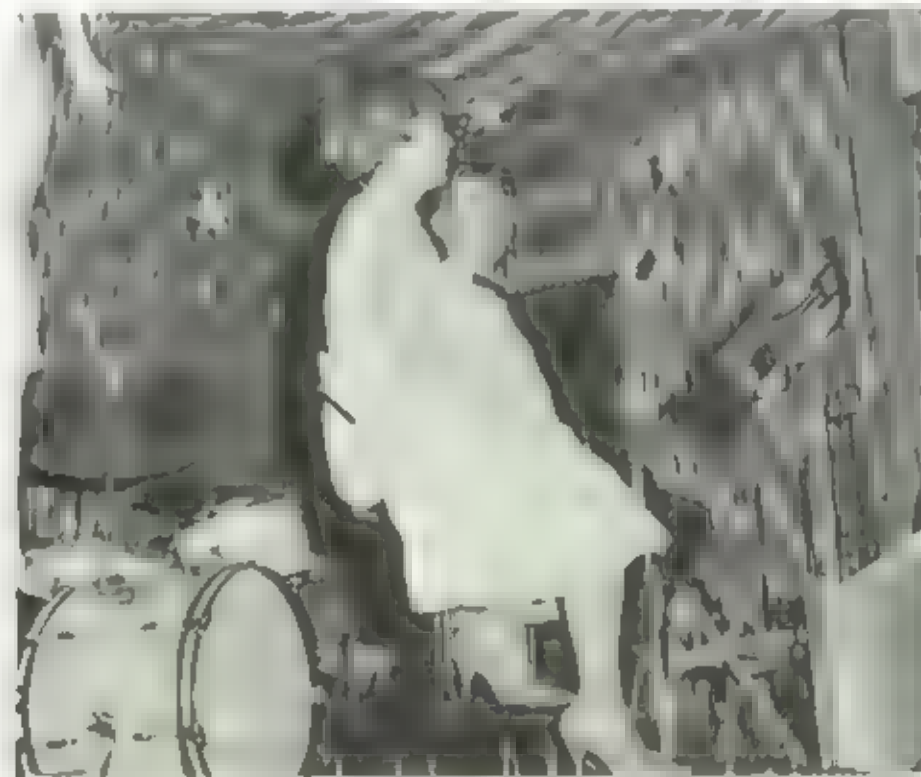

Students from Van Wert High School serving on the planning committee were: Angeline Harrington, Bruce Pheneger, Gary Poling, Susan Harrington, Marsha Ries, Larry Games, Kathy Davis, and Don Anderson.

Sharyl Schwartz and Larry Mengerink were our candidates for King and Queen.

QUEEN AND KING OF HEARTS
Jane Hall and Gig Davis

"Songs of Love" was the theme of the Valentine Dance, held February 14th. The theme was executed in red and white musical notes which had the titles of love songs written on them. Silver thrones graced the stage where Gig Davis and Jane Hall were crowned as King and Queen. The royal couple led off the first dance following their coronation, and were joined by the other candidates who were: Karen Easton, Angelina Harrington, Cheryl Houg, Jill McCollum, Sharvi Schwartz, Jim Drake, Larry Mengerink, Bob VanAusdall, Tom Waldron, and Art Williams.

"Desperate Ambrose" Rides into

"Don't look now, but that guy's mustache just ain't real!"

The arrival of "Desperate Ambrose" proved to be one of the rootiest, tootiest productions ever to hit Van Wert. This gut-splitting satire on the Old West rode into Lincoln Gym on a sultry March 20.

The play centered around Ambrose Groves and Bert Miller, two pussy-footed vaudeville comedians whose talents were to be tried in Dead Man's Gulch. In this wild and woolly town, our heroes were mistaken for the meanest of gunslingers, Homer the Kid and Gunsmoke Carter. They accepted their new roles with grandeur, although the rewards were questionable. At the end of three hilarious acts, happiness ruled at the point of a gun.

Mr. Waldron, ramrodding these little ole mavericks, was assisted by his side-kick, Gretchen Roebke. A hustlin' crew of fifty-four vigilantes fetched the gang's every need. The outstanding directing and performing combined to make "Desperate Ambrose" a rip-roarin', shoutin'-snortin' success.

"As I live and breathe!"

"Dan'l, you-all hear me? Wake up!"

"O K. kids, shape up or ship out."

Symphonic Band Performs Spring

"One of these days I'm going to get these #☆@# glasses fixed."

The annual "Spring-Tasia", presented by the Van Wert Symphonic Band, was held on April 10th in the High School Auditorium.

During the first half of the concert, the band played "The Pearl Fishers Overture", "Symphony Number I in G Minor," and "American Overture for Band." After the intermission, the band played "Fairest of the Fair," "The Four Hornsmen" (featuring the French horn section), "The Penny-Whistle Song" (featuring the flute section), selections from "The King and I" and "Manhattan Beach." A final march by John Philip Sousa ended the performance.

The Van Wert High School Band is conducted by Mr. Jay L. Hall. Much of the success of the concert must be given to Mr. Hall and the various people who worked behind the scenes for the "Spring-Tasia." J. B. Sampsell, who was the narrator for the concert, gave the audience the background and interpretation of each selection.

Performing in their last concert were nine seniors. Mary Ann Miller, Dolly Scerba, Karla Butler, Karen King, Dale Poling, Gary Crosby, Dave Hyre, Ron Shell, Jim Drake

The choir begins the final number of a very successful performance

The Vocal Music Department of Van Wert High School presented "An Evening With The Concert Choir III" on May 8 and 9.

The formal segment of the concert, in which the Choir performed in their robes, began with the Van Wert High School Alma Mater. "August Noon," "Psalm 96," and "Little Innocent Lamb," the choir's State Contest numbers, were also sung at this time. The sacred songs were: "Blessing, Glory, and Wisdom," "How Bright These Glorious Spirits Shine," "None Other Lamb," "Go to Dark Gethsemane," and "Blessed is the Man." The final number, which has become a tradition with the Concert Choir, was "Madame Jeanette."

Susan Harrington performed the intermission solo. She sang "Habanera" from the opera Carmen.

For the second portion of the concert, called "Show Tunes Old and New," the members of the Choir appeared in formals and dinner jackets. This segment included selections from "The Desert Song," "Roberta," "Gigi," and "Showboat."

"Some Enchanted Evening" Is Theme

"Some Enchanted Evening" was the theme of the Junior-Senior Prom, held on May 15. The theme was truly a fitting one, as the night was truly a memorable one.

Activity started early in the week as the juniors began the fun-filled but difficult task of decorating the Lincoln Gym. Soon, it was Friday night and the boys called for their dates early in order to attend the pre-Prom open house parties.

Upon arriving at the dance, many couples beheld the beautiful decorations for the first time. The center of attention was a wishing pond, crossed by a small bridge. Orchid and pink streamers formed the false ceiling and archways. Refreshments were served by the Home Economics Department. The evening quickly slipped by as over a hundred couples danced to the music of the Al Best Combo. After the Grand March, speeches were given by Gary Poling and Larry Mengerink, presidents of the Junior and Senior classes.

At midnight, the night had just begun as formals and dinner jackets were exchanged for shorts and slacks. Parents and civic groups sponsored free refreshments and bowling at the Olympic Lanes. The Lincoln Drive-In and the Happy Humpty also provided food and fun throughout the early morning hours. Toward dawn, many sleepy boys and girls traveled homeward full of memories that will last a lifetime.

On the eighteenth of May, the Latin students of Van Wert High School feasted at their annual Roman Banquet. "ab ova ad malo" (from egg to apple) describes the delicious assortment of food that was served at the banquet. Chicken, grape juice, and salad were the main items on the menu. Costumes of every description depicted various characters from Roman mythology and history.

The slaves, freshman Latin students, served the hungry "Romans" and entertained them with singing and dancing.

A humorous skit, "Ferdinand Taurus," was presented by the members of the Latin III and IV class under the direction of Mrs. White.

PEOPLE

People are the material from which yearbooks are made. Teachers and students, administrators and custodians are all vital parts of our wonderful world of Van Wert High.

The purpose of our yearbook is to emphasize the worth and dignity of each of us, the people whose attitudes and aptitudes are so important to making our world complete.

People influence our lives more than any other factor. Our teachers guide us and help us to set our goals; our friends help to shape our personalities and our ideals. All these things must be done with the help of our parents, the most important people in our world.

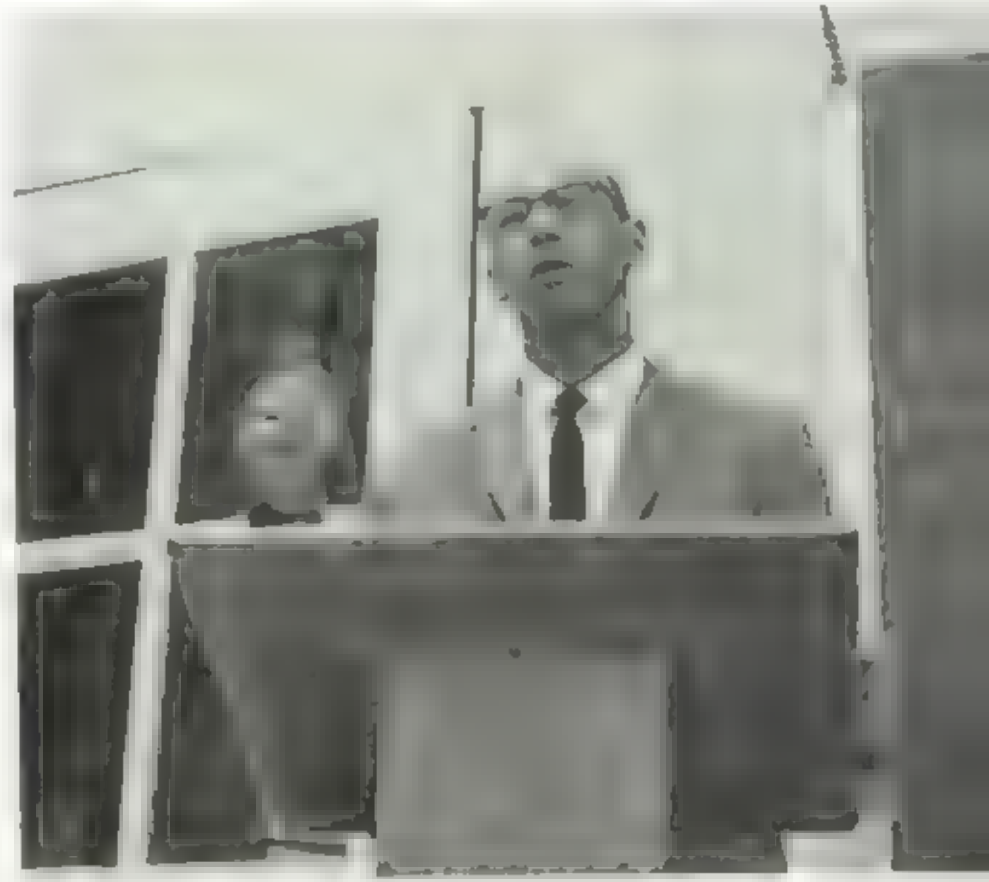

The Senior Class Proudly Dedicates Our

Mr. Coon is one of the most highly respected persons at Van Wert High, as our teacher of American Government, as our head football coach, and as our friend and advisor.

As freshmen, we were just a little afraid of Mr. Coon, but as seniors, that fear has turned to the deepest admiration. In the classroom, he respects everyone's opinion, and is quick to admit when (and if) he is wrong. He has taught almost every social studies course. On the football field, he is a hard-driving coach who believes that "winning isn't everything—it's the only thing."

Mr. Coon is a native Van Wenter. He attended Wittenburg University, majoring in Social Studies and Physical Education. Before coming to VWHS, he taught at Ayersville and coached the basketball team there. He was also principal at Horace Mann Elementary School for several years.

Mr. Coon is very active in the community. At present, he is serving as first-ward councilman on the City Council.

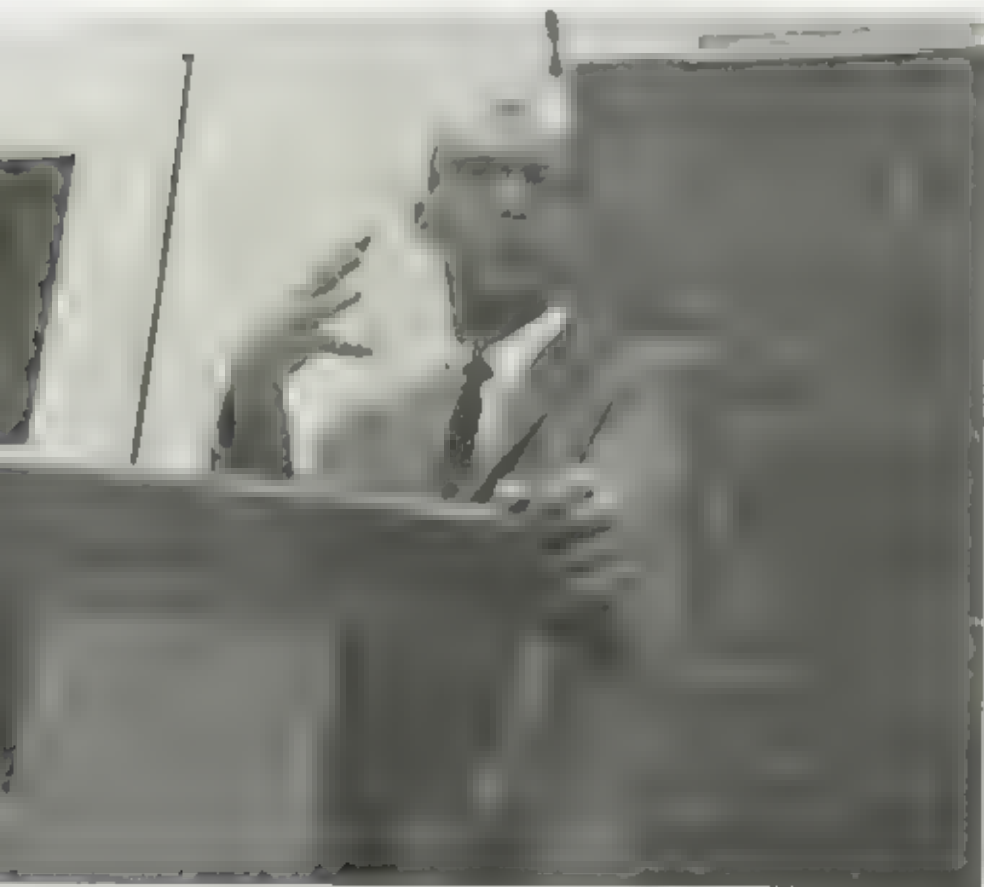

"I agree that Americans must be concerned with the starving people of the world"

Mr. Coon never fails to raise the enthusiasm of the students when he speaks at pep assemblies.

Superintendent of Schools
Mr. Dwight Bennett

The Board of Education consists of five Van Wert citizens who give their time and services to promote better school conditions and facilities and to help maintain the fine standards of our public schools. The members of the board have regular meetings with Mr. Bennett to outline the policies of the program.

Former Van Wert superintendent, Mr. Dwight Bennett, assumed Mr. Branfield's position in the middle of the year. Mr. Bennett has quickly gained the respect and admiration of students and teachers alike.

Administration

In his first year at Van Wert High School, Mr. Vernon Johnson has shown the students the importance of having a principal who is the authority, but still an advisor and friend.

As our school has grown in size and prestige, so have the problems which confront our principal, but Mr. Johnson did a fine job in finding solutions to the many difficulties which arose.

His interest in the students' schoolwork as well as in their extracurricular activities will always be remembered and appreciated.

Principal

Mrs. Esther Schumm

Teachers Are People, too . . .

Teachers have homework, too

Teachers are an influential part of our world. Most of our waking hours are spent in the classroom where our teachers help to shape our goals and ideals.

Teachers, however, are people, too. They are not robots or IBM machines, but people with hearts and feelings and the need for fun. Many times we remember only the discipline in the classroom and the hours of homework, but teachers also take a personal interest in their students. They enjoy the friendly after-class discussions about everything from the Beatles to the World Series to international relations. Most faculty members spend spare hours advising clubs and student activities. Who else so willingly chaperones the after-game dances? (Probably just to learn the latest steps.)

Summer does not always mean a vacation for teachers. Some spend hours in college classrooms learning the latest techniques in teaching, and increasing their knowledge of many subjects.

Even Mr. Turner cannot resist Beatlemania. Actually, we prefer him bald

JUNIORS

Upperclassmen at last, one hundred and ninety five of us proudly formed the junior class. To come, this was just one more step towards graduation, but to most, it was anticipated as our most exciting and most rewarding year.

Foremost in the mind of every junior is Prom. To make money for this long-awaited occasion, we sponsored a huge candy sale, a movie, coat checks at basketball games and dances, and bake sales. We also sold cakes at half time, and candy and ice cream after school. We realize now that the preparation is as much fun as the Prom itself.

Proudly each junior received his class ring, which featured a specially designed crest, mounted on a blue, red, gold, or black onyx setting.

Many of our fellows now played varsity sports. Barbara Roggenkemper and Nanette Pflum were chosen as reserve cheerleaders, and Julie Droll was elected to the varsity squad. Barb was also chosen as attendant to the Basketball Queen. We elected Sharon Mefferd as our Homecoming Attendant.

We happily added our voices to the Concert Choir and played in the band. Shirley Burley, Beth Wilkin, and Debbie Dull represented the Class of 65 as majorettes. Elected to the Student Council were Gary Poling, Stan Kephart, Stuart White, Karen Laemmle, Barbara Roggenkemper, and Julie Droll.

Our junior year has been so much fun; "jolly juniors" we truly are!

SOPHOMORES

Coming back as sophomores, and feeling more at ease, all two hundred and ten of us eagerly plunged into school activities. Many were chosen to sing in the Concert Choir. Marsha Ries and Connie Klausing led our marching band as majorettes; Chuck Steele, Cheryl Agler, Dave Price, Kim Davis, Don Poling, and Nikki Elliott served on the Student Council. Debbie Conley was our Homecoming Attendant.

Sports took on a new importance for us since twelve of our boys composed the entire reserve basketball team. Several played varsity football, baseball, and track. Kathy Wilhelm was chosen for the reserve cheerleading squad, and Kathy Kaduk was elected to the varsity squad.

Breaking tradition, we ordered our class rings in the fall and anxiously awaited their delivery in the spring.

We began to make preparations for the Latin Banquet, where, under the guidance of Mrs. White, we became Romans for an evening.

In May, as we tore down Prom decorations, we remembered happily our second year in high school, but with great anticipation we began to think of the remaining two years of our high school life, which was now half completed.

FRESHMEN

Two hundred and sixty-five strong, we entered Van Wert High School with the knowledge of its importance to our future, the willingness to work hard, respect for upperclassmen, and a great deal of pride in our class and school.

We began by learning our way around this beautiful but mammoth building. Slowly but surely we became acquainted with the daily routine, ten-minute bells, hall passes, and blue slips. We naturally forgot our assigned seats, forgot that no talking was allowed in study hall, and forgot to stand up on "Battle Cry."

Sports soon became a big part of our lives. Not only did we enthusiastically support the varsity teams, but we also backed our own football and basketball teams. Representing us on the reserve cheerleading squad were Kathy Drees, Susie Fry, and Cathy Foreman.

We elected Tina Baltzell as Homecoming Attendant and attendant to the Basketball Queen.

Representing us on the Student Council were Danny Gunsett, Jerry Walters, Lyda Morgan, Mike Ralston, and Donna Cobb.

Our freshman year has come to an end, but the wonderful experience of high school life has only begun.
